

Happy Valentine's Day!

Well, we had a very busy January flying around the world, building life-sized robots, experimenting with our 5 senses, and just being silly during our Opposites Week! A big thank you goes out to Kari Speer for taking the time to put together a fantastic slide show and presentation about the Marshall Islands. The kids and teachers really enjoyed it and so appreciate all of the gifts they were given! I also want to take a minute to thank all of you wonderful parents for all you do to support what we do here at school. Whether it's lugging a bunch of boxes to school, finding a spot in your house for the life-size robot that comes home with you, filling up letter bags, or simply asking how your child's day was at preschool, it all matters so much to these little guys. You are all amazing and it shows in each and every one of your kids. They are such a happy bunch and we love working with them!

I need to ask for your help again in regards to their lunches. If you send hotdogs, grapes, or other similar food, we ask that you cut them length-wise. To try and prevent choking, it is recommended to continue to cut these types of foods until children are well over the age of 5.

Although we are all CPR and first aid certified, we don't want to have to use those skills if we don't have to. We also want to remind you all to send utensils in their lunches if needed that day and to make sure they have a water bottle here at school.

This month, we will be concentrating on our community workers. We will have a "Target" set up during our Counting/Cashier Week and a post office during Valentine's Week. You are welcome to send Valentine's to pass out, but please stick to non-edible "treats" if you choose to give something along with the cards. It will also be the 100th day of school on Wed., the 10th! We're lucky enough to have another parent visitor during our Doctor/Dentist Week when Eilev's mom comes to talk about being a doctor. We will end the month with Construction Week when all of our little construction workers will be busy building things around the school. Miss Rachel has other commitments in February and March, but will return for her weekly music lessons in April to finish out the school year.

Enjoy the rest of your weekend!
